How Do You Measure A Year?

How Do You Measure A Year?

It's been a long journey to reach the end of our four years here at LHS. Our years have been measured in smiles, tears, laughter, and happy times. Longmeadow High School has been a place where we've learned, and grown into the people we always wished we could be. Our four years have been full of stress and hard work, but also with parties and fun. In this time we've forged friendships that have gotten us through the roughest times and helped us celebrate the best times. These four years have shaped us into people ready to not only face, but also take on, the world. We've spent more than five hundred twenty-five six hundred minutes in these hallowed halls, and they will always be an important era of our lives, when we've gathered memories, experiences and we've seen that dreams can come true...

Dedication

Laird Ellis

The class of 1999 proudly dedicates "How Do You Measure a Year?" the 1999 Masacksic, to Mr. Laird Ellis. Mr. Ellis has been a member of the Longmeadow High School community for three years and during this time has positively impacted many students' lives.

As sophomores, juniors, and seniors, members of the class of 1999 have enjoyed Mr. Ellis' teaching in English. We will never forget walking into his classroom on the first day of school and being greeted by his friendly, southern accent saying, "Hello, I'm Mr. Ellis. You can call me Laird."

Mr. Ellis' unique teaching style has always been extremely beneficial to all of his students. Everything his classes incorporate, whether it is his scantron vocabulary tests which help us prepare for the SATs, or his insistence on using a "speckled" book which helps us learn how to take good notes, all are geared towards helping us succeed not only in high school, but also in college and in our futures.

However, the best thing about Mr. Ellis' class was how one block never went by without laughter. His humorous anecdotes, and incredibly loud sneeze which can be heard at the opposite end of the English hall, always made us giggle until the sides of our stomachs ached.

Mr. Ellis' involvement at Longmeadow High does not stop with teaching; he is also the advisor for the Rough Draft, and was a coach at the 1997 Daisy/Weeds game. Mr. Ellis has had an influence on everyone he has taught. He is a special teacher who will remain unforgettable to the class of 1999.

"Seasons of Love" -- Rent

NOVEMBER 1998
WASHINGTON SENATORS ARE CHAMPIONS!

THE CLASS OF 1998 PROVES THEY HAVE HEART!

In 1998, the real New York Yankees may have won the World Series, but they did not "have the heart" to beat the Washington Senators. With one of the highest numbers of participants from any LHS senior class, "Damn Yankees" was a smashing success!

"You've got to have heart" to spend a Saturday traveling back and forth to New Jersey. Leaving at 6 a.m. without grumbling and returning at 9 p.m. in the pouring rain, the freshman formed fond memories of the trip to Six Flags. Some students on our busses might remember an early biology lesson provided by certain ostriches. It was great to hear the laughter as we drove through the monkey's domain (and we don't mean the x-values). What a great adventure we had touring the wild animal park and going on the thrilling rides.

"You've got to have heart" to stay up all night at LHS as some of you proved at the Sophomore Lock-In. Locked in the high school for an entire night might send shivers down some people's spines, but not the class of 1999. Kicking off the evening was a fun-filled dance followed by lots of pizza, movies, board games, basketball, and yes, even a few minutes of sleeping. Students munched the night away on a continuous array of food. Even then there was enough food left to make a very large donation to the Open Pantry. In the spring, there was the Sophomore Dinner Dance. It's amazing how "old" everyone looked when they dressed to impress.

"You've got to have heart" to be seen as a seventies groupie, a Spice Girl, a flapper, Dr. Seuss, Mickey Mouse, a farmer, a scary creature, a M&M, or a character from Star Trek. These were only some of the haunts at the annual Halloween Dance. With a change of season, came a change of costume. It was wonderful to see everyone dressed up for the Junior -Senior Semi- Formal. You were an impressive group of young adults that evening, and it was a pleasure to spend time with you outside of school. Then came the agonizing spring time decisions in preparation for the next year. How many "when to have the play" and "which play" meetings could one class have? And "who should do what?"

"You've got to have heart" to keep up with your academics, participate in sports, attend play practices, and apply to colleges. The final year at LHS started with an event that united the seniors as one large team. Combining all the diverse personalities into one unified cast created a very successful senior class play. All the hard work and dedication of the students contributed to a fun and entertaining production. We were thrilled to be the advisors to such a great performance. Next on the agenda, the Daisies battled Weeds to determine the next team to play in Superbowl XXXIII. Again the seniors transformed from ghouls to glamour as they progressed from the Halloween Dance to the Junior-Senior Semi Formal. With plans for the first Paint Ball War in the spring of 1999, we will show true Lancer spirit as we meet in full armor on the battlefield. Closing activities with the Senior Banquet, the picnic at High Meadows, and the Senior Prom will provide the seniors with many fond memories of LHS. Graduation on June 13, 1999 will culminate four long years of work and fun.

We wish each of you the best for the future. And regardless of your pursuits, always remember "You've got to have heart."

How We Measured the Year: 1998-1999

Five hundred twenty-five thousand six hundred minutes have gone by since we pulled into the student parking lot and confidently walked into school to begin our senior year. As we take a look back, let us measure the year by the events that have left an indelible mark on our lives: whether they be good or bad. Remember the times we were on top of the world-when underclassmen cowered in fear, and we were unstoppable. Remember the two hundred forty minutes we spent rehearsing our lines one last time before opening night. Also the ninety minutes when the women ruled the football field in the annual Daisy-Weeds game were unforgettable. Never forget the ten thousand eighty minutes spent in exotic locales around the world during holiday break or rushing to the post office to make the December thirty-first college deadline. Remember the two hundred seventy minutes spent living the high life with friends at Chez Josef during the Junior/Senior Semi-Formal. Throughout these good times we wish we could forget the three hundred sixty minutes spent tossing and turning in bed the night before the college acceptances landed in our mailboxes. Remember what seemed like the longest minute of our lives as we nervously walked across the gym floor one last time to receive our diplomas. And as you walk onto that college campus for the first time remember that you walked into the "immense" halls of LHS four years ago with the same apprehensions -- and you survived.

Underclassmen

"Five hundred twenty-five thousand
Six hundred minutes
How do you measure -measure a year?"

"Five hundred twenty-five thousand
Six hundred minutes
Five hundred twenty-five thousand
Journeys to plan."

Far...Far... Away

Vacations are the highlight of the [illegible] for just about everyone. The holiday break, break, and spring break are always anticip[illegible] the hectic school year. Longmeadow High [illegible] students need vacations not only to get ou[illegible] for a few days, but also to travel, catch up [illegible] nths of lost sleep, and have as much fun as possibl[illegible] in the limited time. Many students participate in [illegible]hool sponsored trips to exotic foreign locales, su[illegible]h as Spain, France, Greece, Ireland, and Costa Rica. Still, summer vacation is by far the best vacation of the year. Almost three months of uninterrupted bliss. Good weather, friends, and new experiences make for unforgettable memories. While Longmeadow often seems to have little excitement to offer kids, camps provide a great way to get through summer for those who stay in Longmeadow. Sports camps, water camps, and others are a fun way to keep cool, make new friends, and have a blast. Summer vacations also provide the opportunity for many kids to visit Cape Cod, Florid[illegible], Rhode Island, Maine, New York, and other tourist tra[illegible]vith family and friends.

Vacations are not only excellent experiences for everyone, but they are also incredibly fun times and they create wonderful memories that stay with us forever. So remember for next vacation: open your eyes, look around, see the world, and most of all just have fun and enjoy the experience!

Hitting the Books

Sheetal Khera

Nothing could possibly be more dreaded by students than the first day of school. September signifies the beginning of fall, when the air becomes brisk, leaves start to change colors, and the appearance of pumpkins are just around the corner. However, with S tember also comes school. As the 180-day countdown begi , nts file into the halls of LHS -- the same halls they left so joyously behind less than three months ago. Students this year were faced with the adjustment to an eight-day week, and all could be seen carrying around their trusty, blue schedules for weeks. Soon students settled into the familiar routine of classes, teachers, and homework. And with that came the realization that the carefree days of summer were gone. There was no more going out very night or staying up to watch late night television. No, the thi up appointment books now was calculus omework or that summer reading that had to be hastily finished up. When all was said and done however, the students adjusted, and we all, well most of us, survived yet another school year at LHS.

Back To School

Hungry, Why wait?

Sheetal Khera

As students these days stay up later and later, and hours of sleep become less and l[illegible] people are opting for a few more precious [illegible] sleep rather than breakfast in the morning. [illegible] for most people this often leads to ravenou[illegible] the middle of second block, when all you c[illegible] about is what the lunch of the day is instea[illegible] concentrating on the complexities of geom[illegible] European history. And for the unfortunate people who have third lunch it also leads to a tedious counting down of the minutes until you can quiet the rumbling in your stomach with some food from the world-renowned cafeteria.

There was also a significant change in the buying habits of students this year. The addition of the Snack Bar and the everyday accessibility to Nachos were happily received by the students. The pretzels were a big hit as were the Friendly's Ice Cream Cups and Snickers Ice Cream bars. Juniors and seniors once again enjoyed the spacious accommodations in the well-lit half of the cafeteria, while the freshmen and sophomores could only hope for some breathing room once they reached their overcrowded tables. All in all though, the lunch experience at LHS vastly improved and many hope the changes are here to stay.

Endless Fun

Abby Hansen

So it's Friday night and you have survived a full week of teachers, late night homework, club meetings, sports practices and games. Now it's finally time to forget about school for a while and relax. Maybe you'll pick up a movie and kick back and watch it in your P.J.'s. Or maybe you'll decide to meet your friends at someone's house or go for ice cream at Friendly's. If you're lucky, the football team will have a game where everyone can congregate and decide what to do afterwards. This is a difficult decision when you live in such a happening town...Whatever you decide, homework usually gets pushed aside.

Now, Saturday morning is soon upon you. You roll out of bed as late as possible and spend what's left of the afternoon calling friends and making some plans for that evening. This futile effort always ends in last minute arrangements to see a movie, go to someone's house, crash the nearest party, or when all else fails drive around. The night's excitement never seems to last long enough and inevitably find yourself rushing to get through the door before curfew.

Sunday passes by quickly with nothing much going on. Everyone is working, attending religious obligations, completing chores, or spending time with the family. Finally, when all efforts of procrastination have failed or you've just run out of ideas -- you pull out those books that you have managed to forget about all weekend and return to the same old routine. Tomorrow, the week begins again and the only thing you can do is start thinking about next weekend.

I Can't Escape

Sheetal Khera

This year the students and faculty witnessd a number of changes here at LHS. Among them were new doors, new tiles, an eight day schedule, and above all else, ICE blocks. "Individual and Cooperative Experiences"have replaced last year's SLO's and are of course still just good ol' study halls. The new system provided students a choice on which rooms and which type of study, cooperative or independent, they wanted. Students still had to obtain passes for the library (unless of course they were one of the first speedy twenty to reach the library and become part of the lucky few who for one moment in time needed no pass to go where they wanted), or the music room, or anywhere else a student wished to go (within the school, of course). Free blocks appear to be a thing of the past and don't hold your breath freshmen -- it doesn't look like they'll ever be back. Overall, ICE blocks offered students some choice in how they wished to spend their study halls. In most cases that time was spent coming up with elaborate schemes on how to escape the captivity.

"...and do the Boot-Scootin' Boogie!" These words have come to mean one thing to LHS students over the years: a fun-filled, relaxing week of Country Line Dancing. To some this is the best thing they'll ever do in gym class and to others it's a fate worse than a month in the pool. The week before Holiday Break has tr been the week for line-dancing. Students spend gym locks, and sometimes even class time (When they can convince their teachers that their lesson plans will be better served in the gym), learning the intricacies of such dances as "The Achy-Breaky Heart," the "Tush-Push" and even the "Electric Slide." Some students are content to hang out in the back of the pack with their friends, while others jump up to the front to prove that their kills are Hall-of-Fame worthy. One of the most anticipated events th year was by far the day spent swing-dancing. The spread across the country and found its way into the LHS gym where students paired off and learned the steps that let them "Jump, Jive an' Wail." A staple of holiday celebration at LHS, line-dancing was once again a great success!

Are You Ready for Some Football?

Aizza Hassan

On the day before Thanksgiving, as students headed out excited for the four weekend, the senior girls at LHS got ready to play football in the annual Daisy/Weeds game. Walking into school that day it was apparent that the Daisies led in team spirit. Students and faculty entering the student parking lot were greeted by a spray painted display on the pavement, along with yellow streamers strung across the main hallway. However this team spirit was not enough to defeat the Weeds.

The Weeds were victorious winning the game 12 to 6. Led by captain Julie Bailey, and coached by Ms. Pelland, Joe Sarage, and Dan O'Malley the team scored first with a touchdown in the first half. The Daisies although disappointed by their loss, still played an excellent game. Led by captain Allyson Feigel, and coached by Coach Cropper, Coach Ryan Moran, Adam Diamond, and Mike Dorso, the team scored a touchdown in their third and final attempt. The Daisy/Weeds game would never be the same without the help and celebration of the cheerleaders. Seniors Caitlin Blair, Mike Omartian, Seamus Cullinan, Michele Davidow, Keith Bartolomei, Jess Hill, and Jack Emma all entertained the watching crowd with their routines.

Slackers

Aizza Hassan

For the seniors of the class of 1999 senio[illegible] not offer many priveleges. With the senior loun[illegible] memory, and free blocks replaced by lCEs, senior[illegible] not provide the freedom they had been waiting [illegible] freshman year. However, there was nothing sto[illegible]ping the seniors from assuming the traditional role of slack[illegible]rs. Many of the seniors worked hard for the first half of the [illegible]ear doing assignments such as the AP Bio Quadrat report, or cramming for that final shot on the SATs. Then it came [illegible]me to fill out those countless college applications. Many luc[illegible]y people started slacking off as early as mid-December, a[illegible]d by the end of January they had all stopped doing their h[illegible]mework to watch old reruns on TV, and hang out with fri[illegible]nds.

Once spring rolled around, our minds could not even focus on school. The only things we could think about were the prom, graduation, and summer vacation. However, starting in the fall we will be forced to give up our laziness for another four years of hard work.

It happens every winter. After school, many Longmeadow High School students gather in the gym for some friendly competition. The volleyball nets are hung, and the spikes, blocks, and bumps begin.

Each team, made up of close friends an classmates, gives it their all in the hopes that after a few months of fun games and many laughs they will win the infamous "Intramural Volleyball" championship T-shirts.

Senior volleyball player Seamus Cullinan summed up the Intramural Volleyball experience best when he said, "We all had a great time. Competition among friends can be intense, but in the end, we just enjoyed each other's company."

Finally the long awaited evening of January 17th arrived. The gentlemen [illegible] ing dress coats and ties, while the ladies in dazzling gowns and up-dos strutted into the Grand Ballroom of Chez Josef with style. However, for many, the evening began long before with group pictures and formal dinners. Most of the tables and chairs remained empty as the over 300 attendants packed the dance floor. If the dance floor wasn't your place, the soda bar offered refreshments and a chance for conversation. As the night progressed, ties were loosened, shoes were piled against the wall, and bobby-pins lay strewn across the dance floor. Even though the lights eventually dimmed and the music ended, the night was determined to live on as everyone returned to Longmeadow for post-semi parties. This special evening left everyone with memories to treasure for a lifetime.

How We Measured the Years

Hassan

As we arrived at the doors of Longmeadow already had fourteen years of memorable n our minds. These years were measured ifferent ways. We started with our parents otaping every move we made from our first burp ur first word. Then came the half days of school in ergarten at Wolf Swamp, Blueberry, or Center ool which we feared at first, but learned to love. de was even a bigger challenge. We had to stay he entire day, learn how to read, and how to subtract. However, relief from these long s was given at 2:45, when we went to play at a nd's house, or home to watch our favorite cartoons. other year went by, and suddenly, we were in the d grade. We raced one another to see who could get most star stickers on the multiplication tables chart, spent our afternoons at Cub Scouts or Brownie op meetings. Then we reached the top of the world. o rth graders, we felt special wearing our bright hes and guiding the underclassman across istr . In June, we led our teams to victory in crab cer, and stepping stones on field day. Then came duation day--actually we had two graduations that r. One for completing our first year of DARE, and other for completing our elementary school ca- rs.

One Deadline at a Time

Jon Steiner

This year many people dedicated long afternoons to the publication of the 1999 yearbook. Led by Editors-In-Chief Sheetal Khera and Aizza Hassan, the yearbook staff did amazing work. With this being the longest yearbook ever, there were many evenings spent working to meet the next deadline with Bacos Pizza and sodas. This year's yearbook staff worked to ensure that this would be the best Masacksic ever.

From September until March, the editors worked hard every afternoon under the leadership of faculty advisor Roger LeBlanc. With such responsibilities as cropping, creating templates, writing copy articles, and managing business affairs, it was not an easy venture. However, the dedication of the editors created another outstanding book.

Jet Jotter

Journalists of the Future

Aizza Hassan

The Jet Jotter continued its streak of excellence in newspaper journalism this year. After many dedicated writers graduated last year, the Jet Jotter' suffered some great losses to its staff and editorial board. However, under the leadership of co-editors-in-chief seniors Matt Harrison and Sara Hirschhorn, and new faculty advisor Vivian Morse the paper was able to successfully revolutionize itself.

Many new elements appeared in this year's paper. Most noticeable was its change in layout developed by junior Caitlin Hicks and sophomore Claudia Paren. Other additions included the editor-in-chief columns, and a wrestling column in the sports section. However, the paper also retained some of its most popular features including Roving Reporter and Athlete of the Month.

The Jet Jotter requires a collaboration of many people's efforts in order to edit articles, take photos, and layout the paper. Along with the editors-in-chief, page editors seniors Aizza Hassan, and Erin Meyers, and juniors Sheetal Khera, Nancy Picknally, and Kristen Sunter dedicated much of their time to making the paper better than ever.

Rough Draft

Today's News With a Twist

Nick Duquette

After a cold shower and a bowl of oatmeal, the Rough Draft staff goes out for their five mile run before sitting down to pump out their next issue... Well, not exactly. Rather, we're a laid back group of aspiring writers filling our newspaper with parody, sarcasm, and maybe some actual journalistic facts (when the occasional, rare, and unexpected news happens) about life, social problems, and school. Not only does the Rough Draft provide a valuable outlet for mockery and satire for the entire school system, but after all of these years the school still pays for it. Mr. Ellis advised the Rough Draft, and kept many of us out of the realm of liability, while Nick Duquette, Editor-In-Chief, stayed up until the early hours of the morning in order to get the paper published. Jeff Moran worked closely with Mr. Ellis and Nick to ensure that the four publications of the Rough Draft would be produced this year. New writing editor positions were filled by Rob Douglas, and Jessica Dugre and an art editor position was filled by Christa Kolb.

Since 1986, the Business Club has been serving the students of LHS. From managing the Jet Jotter, to selling carnations and roses on Valentine's Day, the Business Club keeps very busy.

The club doesn't just raise money, however. This year the club ran a very successful canned food drive, collecting hundreds of cans to give to local charities. They also had the opportunity to serve food at the Springfield Rescue Mission.

The Business Club had a new advisor this year. Ms. Bailey assisted the club through all of its endeavors this year. The club enjoyed a successful year and is looking forward to continuing their service to the members of Longmeadow High School.

Meaghan McCormick

At the National Honor Society (NHS) induction ceremony in November, club advisors, Mrs. Peters and Mr. Goldberg explained that the Longmeadow High School chapter of NHS was committed to character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Those students who exemplified these four virtues were invited to apply for membership to the club. When accepted, members were asked to commit themselves to community and school service.

The members were involved in such projects as volunteering at the Jewish Nursing Home, collecting socks and cans of soup for the needy, delivering food to various shelters, and tutoring fellow LHS students. Senior co-presidents Alex Grodd and Mike Omartian, led this organization of enthusiastic members to yet another successful year.

French Club

Bonjour, Mon Cherie!

Jen Ranahan

The French Club here at LHS was formed in an effort to give interested students an opportunity to speak French outside of the classroom and learn more about France and French culture. Members accomplished this by getting together to take French related trips and by watching French movies. The members also had the opportunity to dine at such fine French restaurants as Madeline's. The club also conducted several fund-raisers to help pay for these wonderful outings. During the year they sold lollipops and chocolate bars. The club was advised by Ms. Rooney , who was instrumental in helping the French Club do many of the things they had only before hoped to do.

AFS

Culturally Aware

Shannon Bradley

AFS is an excellent way to experience a foreign culture. The Longmeadow High School AFS club has done a great job in assisting students who wish to travel abroad. The club advisor is Mr. Fischer and the co-presidents are Jeff Schneider and Dan Perell. Other members of the board include Mike McCarthy, Sean Ginley, and Klara De Temmerman.

Through AFS many students travel abroad. This year, seniors Jena Blair, Peter Morse, and Brian Sherman spent the summer in Chile.

The main purpose of AFS is to make our foreign exchange students' stay here at LHS as enjoyable as possible. The club plans activities such as bowling or apple picking for exchange students Waldo Castillo, from Chile, and Nana Shinchi from Japan. Co-president Jeff Schneider explains, "the idea of the club is to give the new students a taste of American culture."

Don't Drink & Drive

Sheetal Khera

SADD, or Students Against Drunk Driving, is a club with a mission. Under the leadership of club co-presidents Justin Blair and Abby Kalicka, and faculty advisor Mrs. Wiseman, the club's goal was to make both the school and the Longmeadow community as a whole aware of how drinking and driving can ruin one's life. This year, the club continued its campaign to stop the dangerous combination of drinking and driving by making posters to hang on school walls year-round to warn students, and by selling and handing out red ribbons at athletic events and in the hallways for awareness.

Jessica Dugre

Key Club strives to serve the school and community. Under the leadership of this year's board members seniors Kolajo Afolabi, Bridget Yearwood, Rachel Finer, and Amy Scheer, juniors Emily Darling, and Karin Ross, and sophomores Allison Grant, and Andrew Whiteford. Many members arrive early to school to participate in homeroom run by Vesta Browne and Coach Hawker. This is in addition to the many community service projects each member participates in to earn their twenty-five hours of community service for each quarter. During the football season, Key Club runs the concession stand. This year they raised enough money for the stand's renovation to be completed within the near future. Members participated in annual events such as The Big Balloon Parade, Hoop it Up, and Loaves and Fishes. In April, members traveled to Springfield to host the District Key Club Convention where they met with members from other clubs for three days at the Springfield Marriot and Sheraton Hotels. Come June several Key Club members will go to Chicago for the International Key Club Convention.

Literary Genius

Nicholas Duquette

Impressions, the LHS literary magazine, has had a very successful year. A staff that more than doubled in its numbers from the previous year read, reviewed, selected and published its annual collection of student art and writing.

The magazine was led this year by co-editors-in-chief senior Aizza Hassan, and junior Nick Duquette, and was advisd by Ms. Linda McShane. They were helped and supported by editors along with dozens of other dedicated staff.

Not just a portfolio of student work, this year's Impressions staff followed last year's in trying to make the magazine one continuous work that was more pleasing to read than earlier editions. Art and writing of similar themes were placed together, and the order of the selections was done to make Impressions as enjoyable to read as possible. The magazine has become a great place for students to express themselves to their fellow students in a variety of artistic forms.

Nicole Crenshaw

The Unity Club had a great start to the year with their bake sale fundraiser, which enabled them to donate money to a charitiable organization in need of assistance. The mission of the Unity Club is to highlight the fact that we are all very diverse people and all come from different races and cultures. The club set out to increase social awareness among themselves, and others outside the group. Originally named Umoja, the Unity Club's new name represents their strive to maintain unity in the family, community, and among races. Throughout this year, they continued building a strong sense of solidarity in order to remain a strong, successful, united group.

Getting "a better chance"

Nicole Megatulski

A Better Chance, or ABC, brings out-of-state minority students who excel academically to Longmeadow High School for a quality college-preperatory education. The privately funded program, supported by donations, was begun 25 years ago with the goal of offering determined students new opportunities. Participants board in Longmeadow and must maintain a GPA of at least 3.0 to remain in the program. Over the years, the program has aided numerous talented students and continues to offer opportunities to five students annually.

Crossing City Lines

Nicole Megatulski

Started in 1968, the Metropolitan Council for Educational Opportunities program, or Metco, has bused inner-city kids to suburban schools. Participants in the Longmeadow program begin in kindergarten, so as to integrate them into the Longmeadow school environment at an early age. One of five area communities with Metco, Longmeadow, for the last 25 years, has decided to keep the state funded program because it so widely benefits both the inner-city participants and the students of the community as well. Metco promotes diversity as well as offering educational opportunities and new friendships to participaiting students. Metco has proved a success over the years and it continues to prosper.

General Knowledge, Please

Jeff McCormick

With the help of advisors, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stevens, the As School Match Wits Team continued its long tradition of excellence. Membership on the team is decided after interested students take an annual team. This year, LHS was represented by a dedicated, hard-working team consisting of Mike Stevens, Matt Harrison, Chris Pelosi, John Lovett, Russ Nadler, and Rob Berger. The team prepared and practiced to compete with other fine area teams. Despite a late season loss to Suffield, the team was extremely proud of their performance.

Math Team

Taking it one problem at a time

Sheetal Khera

This year's Math Team enjoyed much success in competition. The Math Team is a small group of students from all grade levels and was advised by Mrs. Peters. Seniors Sam Chang and Michael Stevens, led this year's team and helped form a really cohesive, focused team. Members met every Tuesday after school to work on complicated math tests dealing with the types of problems that would be highlights in the upcoming meet. The club members all participated in selecting the students that would compete in the meets, and a different group of students were chosen every week. The '98-'99 Math Team completed a successful year and were ranked second out of twenty nearby schools. Congratulations to the Math Team on an excellent year.

Minds At Work

Raeka Talati

Every Thursday afternoon in room 146, many dedicated students with keen interest in science congregate to prepare for their monthly meets. The league's purpose is to allow students who want to pursue a career in science, or just enjoy science, to participate in competitions. As a member of the league, there are many options for events, ranging from building a tower out of pasta to hold the most weight possible, to putting your science knowledge to the test in events like Chem Clue or Cell Bio. At the first Thursday of every month, Mr. Hirsch, the faculty advisor, and the students travel to various schools to compete. They also travel to Framingham State College for the State Competition. This year, the team had a lot of success, winning many of their competitions. A junior member, Nancy Picknally, of the league said, "Science league is a wonderful club because the events you do are related to science but in a way so that you don't have to be good at science to have fun."

Science League

Debate

One Side v. the Other Side

Jen Ranahan

Should the United States government substantially change the foreign policy towards Russia? This was the question discussed by the LHS debate team this year. The season proved to be an impressive one with the team able to make three strong groups. The team of seniors Alex Grodd and Sara Hirschhorn on the negative side and Kolajo Afolabi and Rachel Finer on the affirmative side placed third in the league. The many new additions to the team and the incredible interest in the topic added to the overall strength of the team. The team finished with an impressive record of 19 wins and 5 losses as a team.

Objection, Your Honor

Jeff McCormick

Led by veteran seniors Meaghan McCormick and Jeff Schneider, returning juniors Ian Wacks and Sheetal Khera, and advisor Mr. Winseck, the Mock Trial Team continued its legacy of excellence. Mock Trial is a statewide competition in which teams argue fictional cases before real judges. Teams prepare questions for witnesses and compete in courthouses statewide.

The team met every Wednesday to develop stratagies and to improve individual skills, which prove useful in meets. With the help of the new members, the Mock Trial Team can be assured of continuing success in the future.

Environmental Club

Saving the Earth

Carla Goldman

The Environmental Club, led this year by Ms. Cook, focused their efforts on trying to make the students and faculty here at LHS more aware of everyday things that we do that harm the environment. This year, the club focused on cutting down on the waste of paper in the school. The club wrote letters to the faculty encouraging the use of overheads to reduce the amount of waste. The club also held bake sales to raise money that helped fund their recycling projects, which included new recycling bins for the school. The Environmental Club also pitched in toward the fight to preserve our rainforests by initiating a signature campaign. Overall, the club's efforts helped heighten the awareness of students to many different environmental issues.

Outing Club is a wonderful club through which students can experience many outdoor activities such as cross-country skiing, ice skating, hiking, and apple-picking through their monthly trips. The highlight of this year was the trip to the East Hill Farm in New Hampshire, where they enjoyed hiking in the snow, and ice skating on a frozen pond. The purpose of the club is to enable students to participate in exciting outdoor activities. The club is run by Ms. Eagan, the faculty advisor, and co-presidents seniors Kristen and Heather Fitts. Everyone in the club had an amazing time together, helping each other learn new things such as skiing or skating. Junior Laura Fox said, "Outing Club is one of my favorite clubs because you get to spend time with a great group of people. It's a perfect way to unwind, and it's a wonderful chance to experience new things."

Help's A Phone Call Away

Erin D'Elia

PALS, the Peers Are Listening and Supporting, was once again a tremendous help to students who needed heir help. Advised by Mr. Crumb, chosen students along with several adults were available to speak to students who were in need of someone to listen to their problems. The PALS Warm Line was made available to junior high school students who wanted to talk to someone older, but not necessarily an adult, about something that was concerning them. It was something that students could feel comfortable going to to help them deal with the stress of everyday life. The PALS line was made available Sunday through Thursday during the evening hours. All of the members were specially trained to assure they could handle difficult situations. Overall, PALS was incredibly helpful to many students in need.

Respect Every Alternative Lifestyle In Today's Youth, or REALITY, is the Longmeadow High School Gay-Straight Alliance and is dedicated to providing a safe place for gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgendered students. In addition, one of the club's goals is to increase the student body's general awareness of gay and lesbian issues.

The 1998-1999 school year was only the second full year of REALITY's existence, and already it's had a great impact. This year the group held fund-raisers, met with other local GSA's, created a regularly distributed newsletter through e-mail, and has plans to attend this year's Gay-Straight Youth Pride in March.

This was a new and exciting year for the Wind Ensemble. though the group did not travel anywhere this year, it was still comp of an amazing group of musicians. Its repetoir for the Winter and Concert consisted of Liturgical Dances, Allerseilen, Movement for Rosa and Phantom of the Opera. Conductor Mr. Mucci summed up the year by sa "This group has maintained the high standard of excellence people come to expect from the Wind Ensemble."

This years's string orchestra was a fairly young group featuring ny talented freshmen and six graduating seniors. However, the group ercame the inexperience and once again performed to the high standards by previous groups. Mr. Mucci once again led the group through their ncert season. The group began the year performing the finale to the annual nter Concert, which was highlighted by Jason Freeman's performance of umann's piano concerto. The group was also invited to perform at the All-te festival for the second straight year. After the annual Amherst Exchange ncert, the orchestra ended the year with another stellar performance at the jor Works concert. Overall, the Orchestra enjoyed another extraordinary ar!

This year's jazz ensemble not only upheld the high standards set in years past, but it took the jazz experience at the high school to whole new levels. The group's first performance was at the annual Pops concert where they impressed audiences with soulful renditions of such charts as Bluesin' Gold, Oclupaca, and Follow that Line. From there, the group elected not to perform in the traditional western district IAJE competition. Having won too many gold medals in past years the ensemble decided it wanted a change of pace.

This year the group participated in a jazz festival at Holyoke Community College in which they were offered the opportunity to be adjudicated and to perform with nationally recognized musicians. Senior all-state guitar player Ian Weiss summed up his experience by commenting, "I enjoy being a member of the jazz ensemble. I play guitar." Thanks for the insight Ian.

Concert Band, by far the school's largest ensemble, had another exciting year. Composed of students from ades nine through twelve, and conducted by Mr. Michael Mucci, the Concert Band tackled some challenging usic this year. The students enjoyed the freedom and responsibility Mr. Mucci gave them to select their own usic. Performing in three concerts this year, the band chose to perform "The Maelstrom" and the highlight of e Pops Concert, "The Phantom of the Opera." For this piece the group combined with the Wind Ensemble to eate the enormous symphony band. Overall, the members of the Concert Band, and Mr. Mucci were very proud the things they accomplished this year.

This year, La Capella, the all female vocal ensemble, underwent several changes but still managed to perform beautifully. Under the direction of Jim Dehls, an experienced and talented conductor, the group had many phenomenal concerts. They performed popular songs such as "The Water is Wide" and "Big Yellow Taxi." This year's group, composed of sophomore, junior, and senior girls, was split into two separate classes. This allowed for more individual attention and practice with performing in smaller groups. The girls showed their continuous effort and determination in their frequent night rehearsals, where the two classes practiced together. Due in large part to Mr. Dehls' enthusiasm, this year's students had a very enjoyable experience.

One of the most elite groups of vocal performers involved in LHS music department is I Cantori. It is a select group of members n lyrics who are able to work together to create a blend of voices. s year's twelve members rehearsed outside of school under the ervision of Mr. Thomsen to learn and memorize a program. The nbers of I Cantori work throughout the year and take part in the A State Festival in March. Pieces were sung by Passereau, Victoria, ke Mechem, and Josquim des Prez. This year's group was also as sted by student teacher Michael Smith.

The '98-'99 concert season here at LHS was by far one of the most outstanding and most memorable in recent years. It began on November 24th with the Fall Concert, which featured the Concert Band as well as many of the various vocal groups. It was the first performance of the Freshmen Women's Chorus. They performed well singing, "Dreaming of You" by Selina. La Capella performed a variety of pieces as did the Men's Chorus, which performed Billy Joel's "Piano Man," a definite crowd favorite. The evening also featured two A Capella groups, which was a first in recent years.

Next on the concert schedule was the Winter Concert held on December 22nd. This concert brought the first performances for the LHS Orchestra and Wind Ensemble, as well as I Cantori and Lyrics. The Orchestra performed three pieces, the highlight of which was Jason Freeman's performance of Schumann's piano conecetro. The Wind Ensemble brought the audience to their feet with their performance of the "Liturgical Dances" and "A Movement for Rosa." I Cantori and Lyrics sang better than ever, showing a wide range of talent. Like always, all of the choral groups came together to sing the traditional "The Lord Bless and Keep You."

The annual Pops Concert was also a smashing success this year. This concert featured a performance from the Symphony Band which performed "The Phantom of the Opera." There were numerous choral groups that performed that evening. The Women's Chorus performed "Ghost" and the highlight of the evening for many was Lyrics performance of "Zoot Suit Riot." The Super Chorus performed again, singing the popular "Circle of Life From the Lion King." The outstanding LHS Jazz Band was the last performance of the evening, playing three pieces including "Oclupaca" by Duke Ellington.

Overall, the extensive musical talents, both instrumental and vocal, of the students here at LHS were well showcased throughout the year, with many outstanding and memorable performances.

Football

Mike McGarry

This year's LHS football team left its mark by, once again, winning the Suburban League and repeating their victor as Super Bowl champions. This was a historical season for the team in that it was the first time that any LHS team had eve won the Super Bowl in successive years. The team finished the season with a record of 10-1, going undefeated in th Suburban League. The season ended appropriately with a 32-8 blowout of Super Bowl opponent, Westboro.

The season was summed up by Head Coach Alex Rotsko who described four minutes of play that was perhaps th best playing the team did all year. "I think the last series of the Northampton game, in which we marched down the field running out the clock and never giving them a chance to get the ball back and win the game. It really defined what kind o team we were. That really showed our determination." While all team members contributed to this unforgettable season the team was led by senior captains Tom Moran and Ryan Noonan, as well as seniors Jim Toye, Nick Ghansah, Phil Hallahan and juniors Winston McGregor, Ryan McCarthy and Joe Mujalli.

Cheerleading

Iliana Freidson and Nicole Megatulski

The cheerleading squad practices everyday after school during which they prepare their routines and stunts for upcoming games and competitions. Exhibiting school spirit by making posters, announcing games, and encouraging crowd participation at games, the cheerleaders worked hard to support the many LHS sports teams. The cheerleaders also participated in state-wide competitions taking placing first and second this year, and have also competed nationally. The squad were also involved in the community this year as they participated in the Walk for Diabetes.

"At the beginning of the season, we were not sure how far we would go because there were many new inexperienced members. However, determination and dedication brought us a long way," explained junior Brooke Giguiere. Under the leadership of Varsity coaches Priscilla Diaz and Ellie Matroni, JV coach Wendy Winn, and Varsity captains senior Samantha Wolman and junior Brooke Giguiere, the squad proved itself to be a strong, competitive team that will continue to make impressive showings in the years to come.

Cross Country

Nancy Picknally

This year's boys and girls Cross Country teams both enjoyed fun and highly successful seasons. Led by Head Coach Eagan, Assistant Coach Fretis, as well as senior captains Katie Ward, Kristen Fitts, Chris Pelosi, and Trip Young, the teams finished 11-3 and 12-3, respectively. There were quite a few strong runners this year for both teams. Among them were senior Christine Coady and junior Kristen Sunter for the girls' team and junior Jim Weinmann, and sophomores J.J. LaFrance and Andrew Whiteford for the boys. Along with their competitive success, the team also continued several traditions such as spaghetti dinners before every meet, and dressing up the day of the meets. These activities contributed to the strong bond felt by all on the team as senior Seamus Cullinan said, "I really enjoyed the season. Even though it was my first year, the whole team made me feel really welcome." Senior team member echoed that sentiment summing it up nicely saying, "It's all about soul." Overall, the teams enjoyed outstanding seasons and congratulations to all.

Men's Soccer

Jeff McCormick

Under the experienced guidance of Coach Pantousco, the men's Varsity soccer team finished the 1998 season with a record of 5-7-4. Team captains, seniors Pete Morse and Rob Hampf, and junior Tim Murphy, together with team members seniors Ryan Haddad, Tim Derosier, and Justin Blair, worked to create a team of dedicated and hard-working players. While team spirit and unity were not only encouraged but quite evident as well, each player focused on developing his own talents and abilities which greatly helped the team's performance.

The Junior Varsity team led by Coach Hume also ended the season with a 5-7-4 record. The team continued to focus on the development of skills and a variety of new plays. Working together on improving individually and collectively, members of the J.V. team look forward to improving on their record next season.

The Freshmen team ended the season with a 7-7-1 record. The commitment of Steve Gesualdi helped these new LHS players improve their fundamental skills and to develop team unity. Like the Varsity and J.V. players, the freshmen are anxious to play again next season. Congratulations to all of the LHS men's soccer teams on impressive seasons!

Women's Soccer

Meaghan McCormick

The Women's Varsity soccer team had a memorable season, as they went all the way to the Western Massachusetts semifinals. The team, led by senior co-captains Lauren Luciano and Kelli Threlfall, had considerable help from juniors Molly Dullea, Courtney Brown, Cathy Nowicki, and Melissa Martinelli, as well as freshman Kerry O'Malley. With new coaches Kathy Russotto and Kate Butler, the varsity team triumphed over such opponents as the Ludlow Lady Lions and the Minnechaug Falcons. All the members of this year's team pulled together to have a winning and enjoyable season.

The Junior Varsity team was coached by Mr. Dillard, who emphasized ball skills and teamwork, and helped his team have a great time while refining their soccer skills. Congratulations to both teams on excellent seasons.

Field Hockey

Brianna Murphy

The Varsity Field Hockey Team is now considered legendary. In the past, the girls have beaten Southwick once in a season, but never twice. This year's two victories over long-time rival, Southwick, contributed to the determination and hard work of the 1998 League Champions. Playing for the Western Mass title and losing in the semi-finals at Smith College was tough, but winning the League and walking out with an undefeated record was already achievement enough.

The team captains senior Ashley Braden, Ursula Stahl, and Jill Varley led the team through an incredible season, as well as made them the first team eligible for All-Western Mass. The fourth captain and key player, senior Stephanie Ross, was an All-League player, as well as senior Amy Martin.

The Junior Varsity field hockey team also did a great job this season, under the leadership of sophomore captains Christa McCarthy-Miller and Katie O'Malley. Even with having to make an adjustment to two new coaches, the girls proved they were ready to work hard and wanted to win. The teams were excited over their highly successful seasons and look forward to beating Southwick again next season.

Volleyball

Marissa Klug

This year will surely be a memorable one for the girl's volleyball team. The team ended the season with a winning record and made it to the tournament, losing in the semi-finals. It was a strong finish to a strong season.

The team was led by Coach Hawker, and senior co-captains Carla Goldman, and Jen Rome. Both Goldman and Rome exhibited their impressive skills, while senior Jeannette Portier and junior Jocelyn Farmer showed off their amazing spiking skills. LHS has only had a volleyball team for three years, but as this year's team proved their ability through work and dedication, they gained the respect and recognition of other teams and coaches in the area. Said varsity player, Jocelyn Farmer, "We impressed a lot of people this year by making it to the tournament. It was a huge step up and we proved ourselves to a lot of people." The LHS girls' volleyball team proved that they take the sport seriously and will definitely be around for years to come.

This year the LHS golf team had a challenging season, finishing with a 7-12-1 record. The team did show improvement over last season's though. Under the leadership of coach Mike Burke, and with the help of notable players such as juniors Jon Orenstein and Ryan Birtwell, along with the hard work of all of the team members, the LHS golf team should continue to grow and improve. The most important thing was that the players had fun throughout the whole season really growing as a team. Junior Ryan Birtwell remarked on the season, "We had a great time, because winning wasn't a priority for us." The LHS golf team did show potential this season and with the continuous hard work of the players, the team looks forward to victorious seasons in the upcoming years.

The boys' varsity basketball team had a fun season with some ups an downs. A huge accomplishment this year was a defeat over the number one seede team, Northampton. Hundreds of cheering fans packed the bleachers for th exciting game. Starting out with a lead, the boys gave their all and won by twent points. Seniors Keith Bartolomei, Mike Overson, Jim Toye, and Mike Gorfin playe with leadership and poise as they won a handful of good games, beating teams suc as Commerce and Agawam. Freshman superstar John Williams led the team wit scoring and was one of the top scorers in Western Mass as well. First year coac Hassan Robinson had a good time with the team, pushing them to work hard and b successful.

The boys' Junior Varsity team, coached by George Yearell, was successful i that they won more games than they lost. In some close games the boys pulle through and dominated. The Freshmen boys, coached by Gary Destephano, playe hard with excellence, getting ready to move up next season.

"Desire." Sometimes a little faith is all it takes when dealing with a winning season. The gir varsity basketball team showed more than a little faith- they had the desire to win. On January 12, 199 they did something no other girls team has done in years--they beat Agawam. Agawam came into o gym with an intimidating undefeated record. However, the LHS girls pulled through in the end and be the number one team, keeping Longmeadow at a steady third place in Western Mass. Entering t tournament with a fifth seed, Longmeadow played and beat the number four Westfield team bringi them to the semi-finals, once again up against Agawam. This time, Longmeadow didn't win the hu game played at AIC, but they were ahead for a good portion of the quick challenging game. The gan ended the girls' outstanding season, leaving them with high expectations for next year. Senior captai Ellen Bogdanowicz, Lauren Luicano, and Jeannette Portier led the team with a strong impact on and c the court. Head coach Wayne Patterson, and assistant coaches Mike Roy and Kelsey Scarpa led the LH girls through thick and thin throughout this winning season.

The Junior Varsity team, coached by Kerry Jenkins, had a very successful season with fe losses. Many games were really exciting-going into overtimes with winning shots at the buzzer. Th freshmen girls, led by Coach Gannon, were great as well with hard-working girls who will be valuab additions to the JV and Varstiy teams as they move up next year.

Seasons of Love

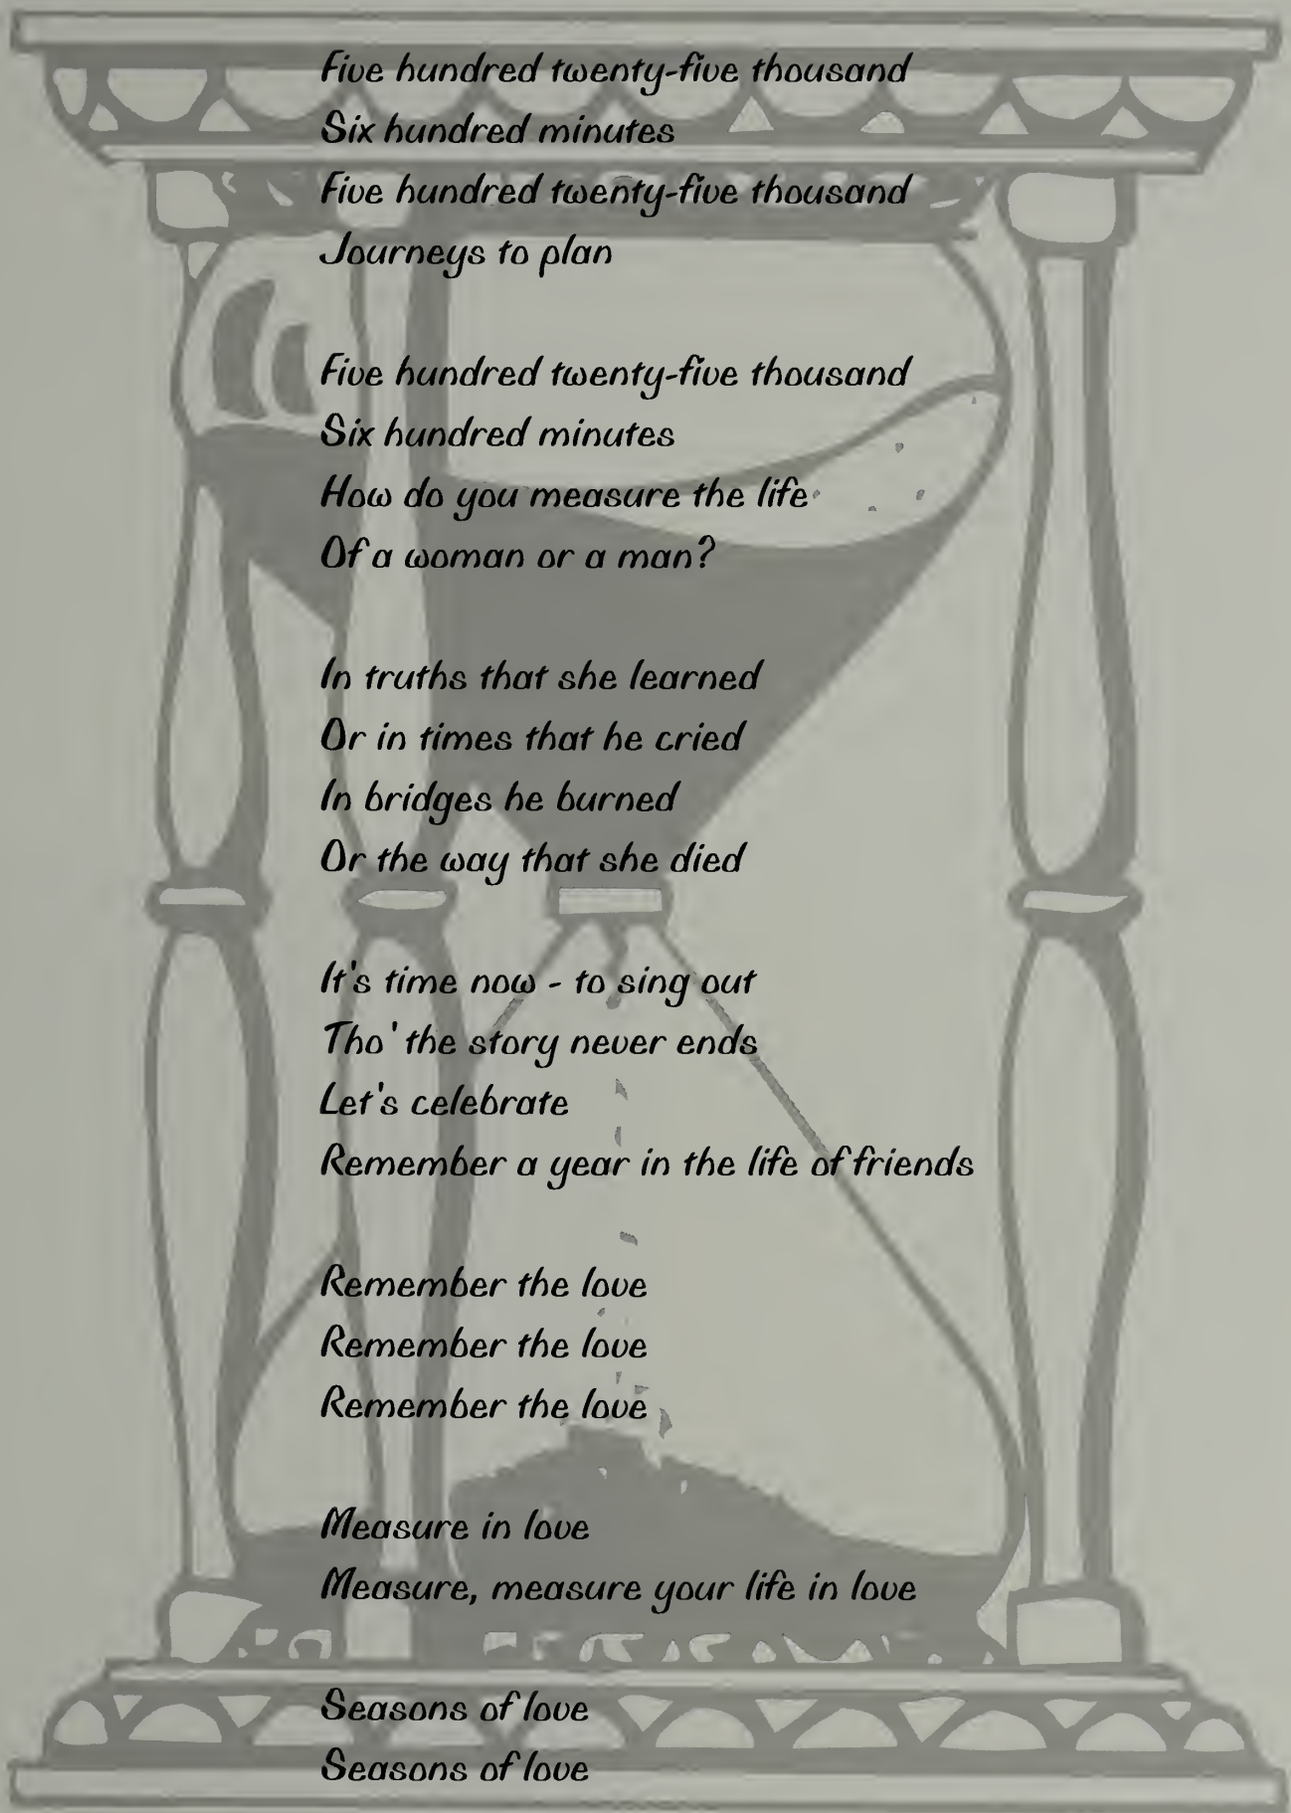
Five hundred twenty-five thousand
Six hundred minutes
Five hundred twenty-five thousand
Moments so dear
Five hundred twenty-five thousand
Six hundred minutes
How do you measure - measure a year?

In daylights - In sunsets
In midnights - in cups of coffee
In inches - in miles
In laughter - in strife

In - five hundred twenty-five thousand
Six hundred minutes
How do you measure
A year in the life?

How about love?
How about love?
How about love?
Measure in love?

Seasons of love
Seasons of love



Five hundred twenty-five thousand
Six hundred minutes
Five hundred twenty-five thousand
Journeys to plan

Five hundred twenty-five thousand
Six hundred minutes
How do you measure the life
Of a woman or a man?

In truths that she learned
Or in times that he cried
In bridges he burned
Or the way that she died

It's time now - to sing out
Tho' the story never ends
Let's celebrate
Remember a year in the life of friends

Remember the love
Remember the love
Remember the love

We'd like to take this opportunity to thank all of the people who have dedicated so much time and effort in putting together this edition of Masacksic. We'd also like to thank you the reader for your interest, and we remind you that all captions and quotes are in good-natured fun.

Special thanks to our Jostens' Representative, Matt Fenn. Through all the questions, whining, panicking, complaining over pictures, he always had the answer. We could never have done it without him, and we give him our everlasting thanks.

And finally, we thank Mr. Leblanc. He put up with more than any advisor should have to. He invested so much of his time, money, and spirit into our endeavor. Most of all, we thank Rog for always being there not only as an advisor, but as a friend. We truly could not have done it without him.
